Join Lucy Birkett, ecology enthusiast and native plant gardener to explore how our gardens, yards, and landscapes can be enhanced to benefit birds, pollinators, and other wildlife, while providing delight to humans. Lucy will show us how easy, inexpensive, and rewarding it can be to grow native perennials, shrubs, and trees, and will recommend specific strategies, species, and resources for growing. Lucy is active with organizations including the Wild Seed Project, Maine Audubon, Freeport Conservation Trust and the UMaine Cooperative Extension's Master Gardener Program. She consults in ecosystem gardening and plant surveying.
